

Jeffery Mearig, Hometown Hero

"It's about helping your neighbor."

Jeffery is a veteran member of the Brunnerville Fire Company. He joined in '76, when he heard there was a need for a driver. He's happy he did.

"I couldn't just sit back, knowing that the fire company needed help from the community," explains Jeff. It's that attitude and passion that have kept him on the volunteering front lines for nearly 36 years.

These days, this Hometown Hero is Brunnerville Fire Company president. "Being a volunteer, you may be on call 24 hours a day, 7 days a week, 365 days a year," Jeff says.

"What makes volunteering special is being part of the larger community and knowing that, although you may not be able to make it to every call, you're still a piece of something really important," he adds.

"It's about helping your neighbor. It's about saving lives."

Your hometown fire and ambulance companies are always there when you need them. Now, they need you. Will you lend a hand?
